Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Let's face it, this must be stopped here and now. The proposed "donation" settlement is a complete joke and I can't believe they are daring enough to propose it in the first place. They are actually trying to gain from their supposed punishment. This high rise circus is growing tiresome. The company should get more than a simple slap on the wrist, which is all they've gotten so far. It seems more and more like digital terrorism and outright mutiny of the economy. Let's start thinking about ethics a little more.

Sincerely,

Denis Héraud
